

Dave Kane
Brazil, 1998
(Abridged)

CREED

I believe life is to be enjoyed
I believe that worrying never helps
I believe it is wrong to kill a moth but spare a butterfly just because of its beauty
I believe that clothes do not "make the man"
I believe that creating beauty is good and feeds us
I believe I am called to do what I am doing
I believe I don't know what you are called to do
I would like to know
I believe in trees with long, curly branches
I believe that abject poverty is a horrible and dehumanizing situation
I believe that the human spirit can overcome any situation
I believe in a ripe mango
I believe in the World Cup
I believe that greed is the cause of most human ills
I believe in tropical paradises (I've seen them!)
I believe in the sense of invincibility in young people
I believe that mosquitos may be unnecessary
I don't believe in drought
I believe I don't want to be famous
I believe animals are friends
I believe in my cat Timbalada's purr
I believe in the complete trust of young children in their parents
I believe in experiencing as much as possible
I believe that peanuts can be eaten with just about anything
I believe in long hair
I believe that if you feel like taking a nap you should take one
I believe in the feel of the sun on my skin
I believe that there is a piece of music that fits with whatever emotion you can feel
I believe that we don't question enough
I believe that life is full of moments needing to be recognized